Mentions that he was paroled in September 1864] [“I'm working on an article on the plan by Navy Sailors at Andersonville to free as many soldiers as they could by giving them the identities of deceased sailors when it came time for the sailors to be paroled in September, 1864. I've found close to 40 "sailors" who were paroled, even though these men are actually lying in the National Cemetery at Andersonville. One particularly good account of this rescue occurs in Chapter 10 of Cornelius Van Santvoord's history of the 120 NY, where a soldier named Wilbur Hale very explicitly recounts how he was approached by a sailor in the prison hospital and given the identity of a sailor who had died the week before. At the end of the chapter, Hale writes, "...we were marched ashore, and our year and ten days of imprisonment was finally over."---sent by Mary Gorman on January 11, 2016. Thanks!

WELLS , DAVID L.—Age, 18 years. Enlisted, August 12, 1862, at Rochester, to serve three years; mustered in as private, Co. C, August 22, 1862; captured in action. October 10, 1863, at James City, V a . ; released, April 21, 1865, at Vicksburg, Mississippi; mustered out, June 10, 1865, at Annapolis, Md. [Died May 21, 1922]

What a story might be here among these five men who survived a Belle Island/Libby winter and, presumably, a summer at Andersonville, along with a journey through the South that entailed getting to Vicksburg. Somehow their luck or survival skills or timing held---they missed the April 27 sinking of the steamship, Sultana, in the Mississippi river where over 1500 returning POW's were killed by drowning in their weakened conditions. In my studies it is not common for Easterners to be paroled or exchanged in Vicksburg. Are these men examples of a cohort? In much POW literature, it is said that four to five banded together was the most efficient group for survival purposes.

In a very clever move, General James B. Gordon's brigade drew the attention of the New Yorker regiment from the front while JEB Stuart led his cavalrymen in behind them. The First Carolina Cavalry charged and quickly routed the Yankees. (This was a regiment that took 235 combined casualties at Chancellorsville and Gettysburg). Here, three men were killed and nine wounded, according to Phisterer. I found only one man listed as KIA. Captain Lockwood's official report differs from this account, as does the following newspaper account (see below). The regiment had 211 men go into this fight.

Fox designated the 120th NY as one of the 300 "fighting" Union regiments, meaning they took over 10% killed in action.

The record here seems to indicate that some of the prisoners were released as early as May 1864 and some on November 20, 1864 (nine). Most of the survivors do not have a parole date, unfortunately. However, George Carnwright would be well enough to be wounded and captured once again at Hatcher's Run on March 25, 1865; George Dean and Thomas Larcom also wounded there; William Chase ,William Rhoades, and Marcellus Wygant were wounded at Boydon Plank Road on March 31 with Frailey Mains (once again captured) there. The regiment's historian indicated that 25 of the James city captured were exchanged by December 1864---this is probably inaccurate since 32 of the prisoners were already dead by August 1864

Only 23 men of this captured group would be mustered out together at Washington, DC on June 3, 1865. All but five here seem to have survived at least six months of captivity. At least 49 did not. Including officers, there are 114 names here. 56 show up in the National Park Service Andersonville POW database. Of that 56 men, 37 of them died at Andersonville, etc. (or 66%). My feeling is that around 70 men went to Andersonville and that the NPS database is missing a few. That lowers the death rate to nearer 53%, a figure I see often. Previously, 10 men had died at Belle Island prison in the James River at Richmond, or at Libby prison or in Richmond hospitals. Overall, then, nearly half died.

FORD, EDWIN.—Age, 19 years. Enlisted, August 14, 1862, at Lexington, to serve three years; mustered in as private, Co. F, August 22, 1862; promoted corporal, no date; wounded in action, July 2, 1863, at Gettysburg, Pa.; captured in action, November 27, 1863, at Mine Run, Va.; returned to ranks for cowardice, November 1, 1864; mustered out with detachment, June 3, 1865, at Emory Hospital, Washington, D. C. [Died March 19, 1927 at Lexington, NY]

There is a potentially interesting story here since Ford attends the dedication of the New York monument at Andersonville as DR. Edwin Ford. I can find only two men who were captured at Mine Run: Ford and Ezra Carle, one of those who survived the journey to Vicksburg...

An Honorable Record.

Referring to the position and operations of the Army of the Potomac, the correspondent of the Tribune furnishes the following statement bearing full testimony to the gallant bearing of the 120th Regiment. Saturday morning about daybreak, the cavalry pickets of the 5th New York and of a Michigan Regiment, in all about four companies, which, together with the 120th, numbering 200 men, commanded by Capt. Lockwood, were in advance of the main body some three or four miles, and perhaps halfway between James City and Madison Court House, brought information that four Rebel brigades of cavalry were crossing Robertson river at Russell's Ford, on our right flank. Capt. Lockwood threw his little force into a piece of woods, and gallantly essayed to check them.—Our cavalry, however, were so overwhelmingly outnumbered, that they made no stand, and their retreat, and the narrowness of the piece of woods, left the infantry flanks exposed.

The little band was at once turned, the Rebels calling out to them to surrender. But Capt. Lockwood deployed his men as skirmishers, and retired fighting and disputing every inch of the enemy's advance, till he reached the vicinity of the main body. He lost 18 or 20 men taken prisoners. Directly that our cavalry retired, the enemy's cavalry closely clung to him, and as soon as he himself retired from, the woods, he lost the only advantage he had to offset against such terrible odds.—This handful of men, diminishing every step, fell back behind a rail fence and from it poured such a volley upon their pursuers as to stagger the enemy's resolution to persist in the attack. Thus the enemy was kept in check sufficiently long for Gen. Kilpatrick to form his main body in line to receive him; but then it was too late. The Rebels would not come again. The 120th New York lost in killed, wounded, and missing 100 men—half the entire number. Gen. Kilpatrick complimented the regiment on their bravery and the service rendered in holding the enemy in check long enough to give the main force ample time to prepare to meet him.

News from the 120th.

Major Abm. L. Lockwood writes us from Brandy Station, (Va.) the headquarters of the 120th, as follows: DEAR SIR: —I send you below an extract from a letter just received from Sergeant T. C. Brooks, Company A, who has just been paroled by the rebel authorities and sent north. He and Richard P. Schryver are the only ones of our regiment who were paroled, and are now at St. John's Hospital, Annapolis, Maryland. By publishing the extract, you may relieve the anxiety of those having friends and relatives among those who still remain prisoners.

[Extract.]

CAPT. A. L. LOCKWOOD—I take this opportunity to inform you that I am once more in America. I was one of the lucky ones who got paroled with the last lot by giving $5 in greenbacks. Sergeant Roosa was left at the Libby Prison, and will probably be sent to Georgia with the next squad. Richard Schryver and myself were the only ones that were paroled of the 120th Regiment. It is five months to-day since I was captured, and since then we have been in Pemberton Prison and on Belle Island. Daniel Davis, of your company, died in February last on Belle Island. R. H. Countryman and Julien D. Rice are in hospital, and look bad. The rest are well, but nearly starved. I send you a list of the men of your company who are there:

Sergt. L. Roosa, Sergt. H. Burgher, Jr., Corp. Charles Dumond, Conrad Dumond, Frailey Maines, Abram Maines, Jacob Van Velsan, Wm. Rhoades, Jeremiah Terwilliger, R. H. Countryman, Julien D. Rice and George Longcoy.

The Acting Sergeant-Major, Silas Auchmoody, is well, but very thin in flesh.—Give my love to all the boys, and tell them never to be taken prisoners. T. C. B.
