

joy to many a sorrowful heart, for they bring the welcome news that those mourned as dead are alive. Some who have been set down as positively among the killed, have given their own signatures to attest their existence. The letters are from Lynchburg, where there are some fifty or more from the regiments of this locality. Some are wounded while others are unharmed. All the wounded are doing well, and are kindly treated by the Rebels.

Capt. Hamilton, who was reported dead, is wounded, but is doing well and has written to his parents.

Lt. Pool, also reported dead, is suffering from a severe wound, and may lose an arm.

Capt. Henry Hoyt, though wounded, is able to write, and in good spirits. He says Serjts. Strong and Marsh of his company, reported killed, and a dozen more, are with him.

Lt. Shannon is also alive and likely to recover, though shot through the body. He was reported as positively killed, and the intelligence came so direct that his wife had utterly given up all hope. She, like others, had put on mourning weeds for the lost as among the dead.

This shows how unsafe it is to accept the reports that come from the battle field in the midst of excitement. However painful may be the suspense, it is not best to conclude that the missing in battle are dead, until ample time has been given for them to report themselves.

The following letters from Captain Hamilton, are those referred to above:

ROBERTSON'S TAVERN HOSPITAL, 13
MILES FROM ORANGE C. H., May 7, '64.

MY DEAR FOLKS:—I will write a few lines in hopes that they may reach you, and relieve all fears on my account. I have no tears to shed, except in sympathy with you in your anxiety about me. Although a prisoner, and a ball having passed through my body, I am in most comfortable circumstances; little pain, every prospect of recovery, and the best of care is given to all. Our enemies are as kind as our friends could be, and we find no cause for complaint. It is quite probable that my wound was reported mortal, as such was my first idea, but I have little weakness except in my limbs.

I have not lost my faith, nor am I doubtful as to God's will in this thing, for if I live I can through him, be a better man.

I am ignorant as to the fate of a large portion of the regiment, but know that many were killed, wounded and taken prisoners.

The following are the few cases I know of—there are other Hospitals:

Capt. Hoyt, wounded in leg above the ankle—can walk.

Lieut. Shannon, wounded in side, slight.

1st Sergt. C. A. Stokes, Co. I, wounded in body, badly. Died yesterday.

Jerry Quick, Co. I, leg, slight.

Corp. W. Beckwith, Co. G, leg; slight.

Pri. Henry Degan, Co. E, body, bad, died today.

Adams, Co. A, leg, slight.

Chapman, Co. G, both legs.

Field, Co. G, leg.

C. H. Durnham, Co. C, thigh.

Daily, Co. G, right leg amputated.

Deitrich, Co. C, arm amputated.

Hollard, Co. E, side.

Jno. Wegman, Co. I, shoulder, slight.

Capt. Hoyt, Jas. C. Claak, David Waffle, Jas. Perrin, C. Henning and Sergt. E. Marsh are reported off for Richmond. Harvy Poole, it is reported, will lose his left arm.

May 11th.—I shall give this to the doctor who will go in a few days,—ordered to Orange C. H. I am doing well. Send love to you all. Good bye.

HENRY G. HAMILTON.

Casualties in the Army.

The New York papers bring us a few further names of the sufferers in our regiments in Gen. Grant's army. The reports are still incomplete. The fatalities in the 140th are far less than expected if the report is by any means complete. But the battle is still raging and the men who are able are still engaged.

We have nothing from the cavalry regiments, or the artillery, and but a little from the 108th.

Col. Powers is reported wounded, and the first report said mortally. A later dispatch, we are happy to say, reports that he is not in a dangerous condition.

Lt. Col. Pierce, who so recently went to the field, before having recovered fully from a wound which deprived him of an eye—is again wounded.

Lt. Porter of the same regiment is wounded.

LATER.—Since the above was written we have seen a private dispatch from J. L. Hatch, to a friend in this city which reads as follows:

"Capt. Hoyt mortally wounded and a prisoner. Col. Powers dead. Capt. Hamilton and Lt. Pool killed."

Mr. Hatch is in the Surgeon-General's office at Washington and ought to be in a situation to get information, though we think he is mistaken as to Col. Powers, and as to Capt. Hoyt, it is not likely that anything positive is known as to his fate. The following is the list of casualties as received:

The main list comprises the slightly wounded who were in condition to be brought to this city.

The Fourth Heavy Artillery had, up to last Thursday, suffered but very little in killed or wounded. The wounded at Alexandria were visited by Ex-Mayor Bradstreet yesterday, who found them doing well and comfortably provided for. The 22d N. Y. Cavalry are now doing guard duty at Fredericksburg. Two companies had a lively brush with Guerrillas on Friday, and were highly successful in repulsing and driving them off.

F. L. Durand arrived from Rochester this morning, and the balance of the delegation are expected by next train.

The name of Samuel D. Porter, one of yesterday's arrivals, was unintentionally omitted in my dispatch of last night. Mr. Porter went to the front yesterday.

Ex-Mayor Bradstreet sends the following interesting dispatch:

A list of wounded of our regiments is being made for an order for transportation to Rochester, of such as can be removed.

Many are at Fredericksburg, too severely wounded to come forward, among whom are Col. Powers, Capt. Grantsynn, J. R. Campbell and private Hume.

I visited yesterday, at Alexandria, all our wounded in hospitals, and found Capt. Willard Abbott, Capt. John Buckley, Thos. A. Buckley, Patrick Fannell, Augustus Davis, of Chili, Albertus Kelsey and James A. Book—all of the 140th Regiment.

John Buckley is bad off, the others comfortable and will get out soon. Thomas Powers, of Co. G, 140th Regiment, died there on Friday.

All our wounded will be called upon as soon as possible.

A list of the wounded now here, has been sent to Rochester. Six hundred wounded have just come up from Fredericksburg, on the steamer Connecticut, but I could not recognize any among them, as they came one by one from the boat. Sergeant Clagrem, of Rochester, of the 140th, stood by to assist. His brother, Daniel Clagrem, was killed a few days ago. Lieut.

Shannon killed three, when he was shot through the head by a fourth. No wounded of the 3d Cavalry are sent here. All the officers, commissioned and non-commissioned, of the 140th regiment, are killed or wounded, and only one hundred and six men are left. (Signed) N. C. BRADSTREET.

From the 140th.

The following has been received from the 140th by an ex-member of the regiment. In giving the names of the wounded, we have erased those previously reported.

CAMP ON THE BATTLEFIELD, NEAR SPOTTSYLVANIA, C. H., Va., May 19.

FRIEND P.:—I received your kind letter last night. This is the first mail we have received since we left Warrenton Junction, and we have lost a great many of the boys since the fifth of May (the first days' fight) and we have been marching and fighting ever since. While I am writing we are lying in the trenches. I have my tent up behind the breastworks in front of Co. K, or what is left of us. Talk about your your seven days' fight before Richmond, it ain't a grease spot to this fight. Gen. Grant is playing Vicksburg with us. Co. K has lost in killed, wounded and missing, forty men. The Regiment has lost between three and four hundred men and officers. Jimmy Maloy is sick and gone to the hospital. I will give you a list of the loss in our company:

KILLED.

Morris Ritter, May 8th.

WOUNDED MAY 5, FIRST CHARGE.

Godfrey Clark, Jas. Van Dyke, John Schaffer, John Lenon, Wm. Lavis (has returned,) Serg't P. Fleming.

MISSING, MAY 5.

Serg't P. Doyle and Corp'l John O'Mera, are wounded and missing, Corp'l John Hayes, Serg't A. Graham, Henry Brown, P. Cusack, Edward Canby, Patrick Fordan, D. Feeney, Phillip Ryan, Henry Young, Michael Trip.

MAY 8, WOUNDED—SECOND CHARGE.

James Mines, Jacob Schwartz, John O'Neil, (has returned to duty,) Martin O'Flaherty, Lt. E. D. Davis.

MAY 12.

Hugh McCaffery was struck in the arm by a piece of wood from a canister shot. He is doing duty again.

I must tell you a little of Hughy's sharpshooting, for he is a bully soldier. Before we made the first charge, (May 5th) the rebs were plundering our dead and wounded on the skirmish line, and our lamented Colonel wanted some of the boys to go out and pick them off, and five men of Co. K went out with Lieut. Cribbin, the only Company that volunteered. Their names are Hugh McCaffery, John Lenon, James Butler, Jacob Schwartz and Frank Jervin. One of the Johnnys came out of the woods and after going through the knapsacks and was returning with his plunder, when McCaffery drew a bead on him and fetched him down in short order. Jake Richardson brought off the colors in the second charge, May 8th, and still carries them. Poor Morris Ritter was killed while carrying our Colonel off the field. On the 7th of May Morris volunteered to go out scouting, and fetched in a Johnny that was out on the same business. He got around in his rear and made him come to time.

Our regiment has made four charges on the enemy since the battle commenced. In the first and second we were repulsed with heavy loss. In the first we charged across an open plain and into the woods, and we drove the rebs into their rifle pits. We were fighting them there with no support at all, the Regulars not coming up in time, when the Johnnies came down on our right flank and captured a large number of our regiment. Johnny Hayes was with me until we reached the open plain going back, and that was the last time I saw him. The Johnnies were then coming down the open plain close on to us, yelling out "surrender, Yanks." I expected every step I took to be knocked over. They shot down a great many of our boys coming back. But I did not like to register my name in the Hotel-de-Libby. Johnny O'Mera and Pat Doyle were severely wounded and left on the field. We were complimented by General Ayres twice. The Johnnies called our regiment second edition Duryee Zouaves.

Yours, &c., C.

Letter from Fredericksburg—Inquiry for the Missing Officers—Condition of the 140th Regiment.

The following letter from Messrs. Hamilton and Pool of this city, addressed to Ex-Mayor Bradstreet, at Washington, has been sent us by the latter for publication:

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 15, 1864.

N. C. Bradstreet, Esq., Washington:

DEAR SIR: We arrived here this afternoon, after walking from Belle Plain, and found the 22d Cavalry in possession of the place; after getting a cup of coffee &c. at Commissary Tower's hotel, we found some of the officers of the 140th. Adjutant Campbell is badly wounded in the thigh, Lieutenant Hume has had his leg amputated, Captain Grantsyun has a flesh wound below his knee, Colonel Powers is doing very well, Captain Porter has gone on—with a wound in his thigh. The place is full of wounded; it is estimated that there are about 12,000.

We find a great many of the 140th men, but as I did not know that I could write so soon I did not take their names.

It is not known whether Captain Hamilton and Lieutenant Pool are actually dead or not. They were severely wounded and left to the mercy of the enemy. Captain Hamilton had time to give up his watch and pocket book. There are we understand from the Provost Marshal, in the hands of the enemy about 2,000 of our men, in Ewell's hands, and they are arriving every day by flag of truce. The hope is very faint, but we will wait here just as long as there is any hope, and during that time shall devote our time to our wounded soldiers. There is no such thing as going to the battle ground of the 5th at present, but there may be before long.

I will write again soon and give you all the names I can of our Rochester boys.

Mr. Porter is here making himself very useful, as are the Common Councilmen, but there is room for more.

Yours, truly, A. S. HAMILTON,
Jos. H. POOL.

Captain Porter Farley has just come in town and he is still safe; he says there are less than 200 muskets left in the regiment (140th).

If you can send any newspapers to us by some one we wish you would, for all soldiers are anxious to hear the news. Send as many as you can to care A. K. Tower, Commissary, 22d N. Y. Cav.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 8.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE 140TH.—Yesterday morning a large mail was received from the soldiers of the 140th, at present in the hands of the rebels. It was found that quite a number, who were supposed to have died from wounds received, were yet alive, and with good prospects of speedy restoration to health.

We clip from the Express the following letter from Sergt. E. T. Marsh, of Co. I, 140th:

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 9, 1864.

EDS. EXPRESS: Knowing that friends of those here will be glad to hear of them I give below the names of members of the 140th Regiment, taken prisoners at Locust Grove:

Co. A—Sergt. Chas W. Root, Corp. A. D. Mosely, Corp. D. W. Richards, Privates Isaac Barnes, Albert Linden, Martin Hoy, J. S. Lowery, James Dalley, Geo. Wilson, Simeon Le Valley, S. W. Hunt.

Co. B—R. Ovenburg, J. Ovenburg, John Klingel, George Riley, Aug. Hilbert, Fred. Humbierce.

Co. C—Orderly Sergt. R. J. Brown, John Burns, J. Ridoute, R. Barr, John Cochlin, James Feeney, Wm. Shields, Thos. Dickinson, James Sarsfield.

Co. D.—Corp. L. C. Colt, Wm. Riley, Valentine Gerling, Byron Frost, Henry Coleman, James Sidey, wound through shoulder.

Co. E—John O. Day, Color Corporal.

Co. F—Thomas Hamlin, Fred. Schoen, Jas. Chambers.

Co. H—Meinig, Wm. Creelman, Jas. Barnes, Jacob Reed.

Co. I—Sergt. Henry E. Story, slight wound in shoulder; E. T. Marsh, Jas. C. Clark, Bradford Kimble, David Waffle, Frank Carpenter, Wm. Reynolds, Jerry Quick, wound in knee, John Wegman, wound in neck.

Co. K—Sergt. Alex. Graham, Corp. John Hayes, Peter Cusick, P. Fordan, Michael Neib, Henry Brown.

I should have mentioned Capt. H. B. Hoyt, of Co. I, but he is not with us—it slipped my mind; he has a slight wound.

Of most of the wounded I know nothing.

Those not mentioned as wounded are unhurt.

Respectfully, E. T. MARSH.

The following is a letter from the same person to his parents:

NEAR LYNCHBURG, Va., May 5th, '64.

My Dear Father, Mother, Sister and Brother:

Knowing you will be anxious to hear from me, I shall try to get a few lines to you, assuring you of my present safety and good health, though a prisoner. I was captured on the 5th Inst., with some others of my regiment, at Locust Grove. There are eleven of Co. I here, including D. Waffle and J. C. Clark, of Chili. Capt. Hoyt is also a prisoner, and slightly wounded. I am well, and did not get a scratch. I must close now, for fear they will not send more. Don't worry yourselves about me, I shall come out all right.

Your son, EDWIN T. MARSH,
Sergt. Co. I, 140th N. Y. V.

Three letters were also received from Capt. Hamilton of the 140th. His family and friends had about given up all hope of his being yet alive, and their joy on the reception of such unexpectedly good news can only be imagined, not described. we have been permitted to give the following extracts from these letters:

ROBERTSON'S TAVERN—12 MILES FROM ORANGE COURT HOUSE, May 7th.

"I will write a few lines in hopes that the same may reach you and relieve all fears on my account. I have no tears to shed except in sympathy with you in your anxiety about me. Although a prisoner, and a ball having passed through my body, I am in most comfortable circumstances, little pain, every prospect of recovery! and the best of care is given to us all. Our enemies are as kind as our friends could be, and we can find no cause for complaint. It is quite possible that my wound was reported mortal, as such was my first idea; but I have little weakness except in my limbs."

Then follows a brief list of officers and men of the 140th.

"Capt. Hoyt, wounded in the leg above the ankle, can walk; Lieut. Shannon, side, slight; Sergt. Stokes, I, body, died yesterday; Jerry Finck, I, leg, slight; Corp. W. Beckwith, G, leg, slight; Henry Degen, E, body, died today; Adams, A, leg, slight; Chapman, G, both legs; Field, G, leg; C. H. Dunham, C, thigh, slight; Daily, G, right leg, amputated; Dietrick, C, arm; Hallard, C, side; Wegman, I, shoulder, slight.

These are the few cases I know of. There are other hospitals.

Capt. Hoyt, Jas. C. Clark, David Waffle, Jas. Ferine, C. Hemming and Sergt. E. March, are reported off for Richmond.

Harry Pool will lose his left arm, it is reported."

May 11th.—I am doing well. Love to all.
Good-bye.
HENRY G. HAMILTON.

HOSPITAL, GORDONSVILLE, VA., May 18.

MY DEAR PEOPLE AT HOME:—It will be two weeks to-morrow since I was captured, and I hope that news of my situation has come to you. Dr. Menzie probably wrote, and I have done so myself. My wound is doing well, and we are having the best of care and treatment. Time does not fly as rapidly as it used, but I get along very well. We are looking for an exchange of wounded, and I believe it may come any day.

Would be quite contented and happy could I hear from you, but trust that you are quite well, and not over-anxious about me. Thinking my wound to be mortal, I gave my watch and pocket book to Sergt. Ringlestine, of our regiment. Do not need much money here, but had a little rather have kept what I had.

There are some twelve of us in this ward, and we are all in good spirits. Wish I knew of the welfare of the regiment. Truly life is checkered. God is very kind, and taking excellent care of me. I am confident He is doing the same with you.

P. S.—I do not mail this until the 20th. Am doing well and think of you often. Lieut. Shannon is doing well; tell his wife.

HOSPITAL No. 2, LYNCHBURG, VA.,
May 25th, 1864.

DEAR FATHER:—I cannot but have faith that news has reached you of me. Have already written twice, but will again state that my wound is a musket ball through the body—a flesh wound. One side is almost healed, and the other is discharging freely. All danger on that score is past, and a few weeks will find me in condition again. * * * * *

Moved from Gordonsville on Sunday, and am now in a pleasant place and having good treatment. We may stay here until our wounds heal. Lieut. Shannon is doing well. Meet many whose acquaintance is pleasant, and treatment kind. Shall be glad to get well even if we then go to prison. Regards to all my friends. God bless you all.

Your affectionate son, H. G. H.

Captain Henry Hoyt writes as follows:

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 11.

I am a prisoner of war, and am slightly wounded. * * * We are treated well, and are more comfortable than I anticipated. * * *

There are some forty of our men taken prisoners—thirteen of Co. I, my own company, including Sergeants Story and Marsh.

Lieut. Starr, of the 22d Cavalry, is also a prisoner. I am not allowed to write more."

The wife of Lieut. Shannon, who has been reported among the dead, received also a letter from her husband. Her delight was extreme. She had given up all hope of ever seeing him again, and on Monday donned the habiliments of mourning. The Lieutenant writes that he was shot in the left side, the ball passing out near the spine. He is doing well, and regards his wound as a slight one.

This batch of letters carried joy to many a household which was previously full of mourning. Quite a number who were bewailing the loss of near and dear friends, were surprised by the receipt of letters from the lost ones.

WOUNDED AND PRISONERS OF THE 140TH.—

The following list of wounded and prisoners we cut from a letter from one of the prisoners published in the Democrat this morning. It gives the names of those of the 140th taken at Locust Grove. The letter is dated Lynchburg, May 9th:

Co. A—Sergt. Chas. W. Root, Corp. A. D. Mosley, Corp. D. W. Richards, Privates Isaac Barnes, Albert Linden, Martin Hoy, J. S. Lowery, James Dailey, Geo. Wilson, Simeon Le Valley, S. W. Hunt.

Co. B—R. Overburg, J. Overburg, John Klingel, George Riley, Augustus Hilbert, Fred Humbierce.

Co. C—Ord Sergt. R. J. Brown, John Burns, J. Ridout, R. Barr, John Cochlin, James Feehey, Wm. Shields, Thos. Dickinson, James Sarsfield.

Co. D—Corp. L. C. Colt, Wm. Riley, Valentine Gerling, Byron Frost, Henry Coleman, Jas. Sidney, wounded through the shoulder.

Co. E—John O. Day, Color Corporal.

Co. F—Thos. Hamlin, Fred. Schoen, James Chambers.

Co. H—Meinig, Wm. Creelman, James Barnes, Jacob Reed.

Co. I—Sergt. Henry E. Story, slight wound in shoulder, E. T. Marsh, Jas. C. Clark, Bradford Kimble, David Waffle, Frank Carpenter, Wm. Reynolds, Jerry Quick, wound in knee, John Wegman, wound in neck.

Co. K—Sergt. Alex. Graham, Corp. Jno. Hayes, Peter Cusic, P. Fordan, Michael Neib, Henry Brown.

Captain H. Hoyt, of Company I, has a slight wound.

Those not mentioned as wounded are uninjured.

Several Missing 140th Men Heard

From.—A letter has been received here directed to the parents of James Minot, written by Sergt. P. H. Walton, of Co. H, 140th Regiment, dated at Fairfax, Va., June 2d. The letter says he with several other 140th men were wounded and taken prisoners by the rebels, he does not say when, but probably in the battles of the Wilderness. Sergt. Walton, although wounded, succeeded in escaping across the Potomac on a raft. He writes that when he left, there were in the rebel hospital at Locust Grove, otherwise called Robinson's Tavern, James Minot, Co. A, 140, wounded in the right foot, not very badly, and was doing well; John B. Snyder, Co. G, 140th, flesh wound in leg; Seth Lovell, of the same company, wounded in the back of neck, and doing well; Andrew Snyder, brother of John B. was brought to the same hospital, and died of his wounds.

From the 140th—Prisoners in Rebel Hands.

The friends of the 140th men, who have been captured by the rebels during the march Richmondward, were gladdened this week by the reception of letters from them. We are permitted to publish the following:

LIBBY PRISON, RICHMOND, VA.
June 5th, 1864.

DEAR MOTHER—I am now a prisoner in "Libby Prison"; was captured on the 7th of June. I am well and all right. There were sixteen captured with me, of our company, and forty out of the regiment. When you direct your letters to me, just write concerning your health and how you are getting along—only a few lines. Here are the names of the boys captured out of our company: 1st Sergt. J. Carson, Corp. I. Goodenough, Corp. J. Brown, Private J. Hine, Sergt. Sperry, S. Brennan, W. Green, Frank Evans. The others were not from Rochester.

L. M. GOULD, Co. D.

LIBBY PRISON, RICHMOND,
June 5th, 1864.

DEAR MOTHER AND SISTERS—I was taken prisoner at Gaines Farm June 2d. I am now in Richmond, and am well at present. I suppose you cannot write to me, and I do not expect to hear from you. I shall write to you to let you know that I am well, when they let me. They took fifteen prisoners of our company.

Good bye. Your loving son and brother,
JAMES CARSON, Co. D.

Capt. Hoyt, who was wounded in his leg a little above the ankle with a musket ball, writes June 16th, that his wound was doing well. He hoped to be able to walk about in a couple of weeks.

The family of Capt. Hamilton have received several letters from him, the last dated July 3d saying that he soon expected to be taken to Macon, Georgia. He was well.

Mr. Frederick Starr has received letters from his sons, Capt. Geo. H. Starr, of the 104th, and Lieut. H. P. Starr, of the 22d Cavalry. The were at Macon, Ga., and were comfortably well. Their accommodations at Macon were more commodious and comfortable than in Richmond.

Further Correspondence from our Prisoners in Danville.—We publish the following, written by members of the 140th, prisoners, the day following their arrival in Danville. Although the letters are dated May 14th, they did not get to Fortress Monroe until the 24th inst. The length of time elapsing between their dates and the dates of the post mark, 24th, at Old Point Comfort, shows the tardiness with which the rebels forward the prisoners' correspondence. They are afraid they may contain some information that shall be useful to our armies. Since these letters were written the prisoners have been transferred to Georgia, for greater safety:

C. S. MILITARY PRISON,
DANVILLE, Va., May 14, 1864.

Dear Mother—As the officers in charge say our letters will go through and that we can receive letters in reply, I thought I would make the trial. We arrived here yesterday after a hard ride from Lynchburg, 54 hours on the road. We are rather crowded, but shall try to make the best of it. We have drawn rations once since we came, of which there were plenty. They tell us we shall have the same each day. I wish we could have a good place to exercise in. You must write short letters and have them unsealed. There are 56 of the 140th here, 12 of Co. I. Keep good courage. Love to all.

EDWIN F. MARSH,
DANVILLE PRISON, No. 3,
Danville, Va., May 14th, '64.

DEAR MOTHER, I write these few lines, to let you know that I am well, thank God. We left Lynchburg Wednesday, and got here yesterday. There are five prisons here, close together, and a couple in another part of the city. There are twelve hundred in our squad, put in three buildings, with some who were taken at the battle of Chickamauga, last fall. You can write, or send here. I should like to know how our Regiment came out of that fight. It was the hottest place I was ever in, for twenty minutes. The Richmond papers say that we are the cleanest and nicest lot of men that ever passed through the South. There are six men of our company here, and fifty-six altogether of the Regiment. Direct your letter to William Riley, Co. D, 140th Regiment N. Y. Vols., Prisoner of War, Care of Major Moifet, Danville, Va.

FURTHER CASUALTIES.—We have received the following further list of casualties to Monroe County men:

HEADQUARTERS 1ST BRIGADE, 4TH DIVISION,
5TH ARMY CORPS, NORFOLK & PETERSBURG
R. R., 2 miles from Petersburg, June 20.

ED. DEMOCRAT:—The 5th corps crossed the James River safely on Thursday last, and marching 17 miles, reached this vicinity about 11 P. M. of that day. On Friday morning we took a position, and now have possession of the rebel's outer works, very formidable, and shells from our mortars can be thrown into the city of Petersburg. It is reported that General Grant has given the rebels notice to remove non-combatants from the city, which will no doubt be bombarded very soon.

On Saturday P. M. a charge was made along the lines, without accomplishing very much, and with some loss to us. Among the killed was Lieut. Chilson, formerly Adjutant of the 24th Michigan, and a worthy young officer. While acting as aid to Gen. Cutler, he was shot by a rebel sharpshooter. I believe he has relatives in Rochester.

Of the 6th Co. N. Y. Sharpshooters, from Rochester, who were in the charge, are the following casualties:

Killed—Wm. E. Ferrin, Pittsford, shot just above the hip, the ball passing upward, bursting a blood vessel.

Wounded—R. S. Eaton, Henrietta, left leg, not serious; Wm. McNaughton, Caledonia, right groin, do.; Matthew Hennesy, Albion, right leg, bone splintered, leg will be saved.

George N. Goold, acting Sergeant-Major, is missing.

The 140th. 1st Brigade, 2d Division, although not in the charge, have suffered from rebel shell and sharpshooters. For the following list I am indebted to A. Morehouse, Hospital Steward of the regiment:

Killed—Clinton D. Pierce, Co. I.

slight; Geo. Whitner, B. right shoulder, slight; Thos. Grace, F, left hand, slight; Patrick Murphy, right shoulder.

Gen. Ayres, in command of the 2d Division, was to-day wounded in the little finger by a sharpshooter, while rubbing his face—a narrow escape.

With no time to give more particulars, I remain, respectfully,
J. T. FARNHAM.

Casualties in the 140th Regiment.

The friends of the 140th Regiment are indebted to Adjutant Campbell for the following report of the casualties in the Regiment. It will relieve many from anxiety, while others must necessarily be pained to hear of the suffering of relatives and friends:

HEADQUARTERS 140TH N. Y. VOL.,

Lieut. John F. Huntington wounded severely. Colonel Otis is safe.

This comprises all casualties since leaving the works in front of Petersburg, Aug. 18, 1864.

The missing are probably all prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES R. CAMPBELL,
1st Lieut., Adj. 140th N. Y. V.

CASUALTIES IN THE 140TH REG'T.—The 140th Reg't is indebted to Adjutant Campbell, of this Reg't, for the following list of other officers of local regiments, holding positions like his would forward similar returns for publication they would confer a great favor upon the friends and relatives of the soldiers:

HEADQUARTERS, 140TH N. Y. S. V.,
October 10th, 1864.

I have the honor to transmit the following list of casualties in the 140th N. Y. S. Vols. during ten days ending October 8th, 1864:

WOUNDED, Oct. 1st, 1864.—Colonel E. S. Otis, by minie ball in face; Privates A. Blinn, Co. F, in arm, slight; Gilbert Utter, Co. H, leg; Sergt. A. J. Ringelstine, Co. H, slight; John Lyons, Co. K, bayonet wound in thigh.

MISSING IN ACTION.—Franz Ruckert, Martin Lanfer, Sebastian Flicker, Co. B; Michael Meagher, Co. C; Wm. McGraw, Walter McGee, Co. E; Corporal Edwin Goodenough, Co. F; James White, Co. K.

Oct. 8th, 1864.—Sergt. Kearon Feehery, Co. F, wounded, not dangerous.

At the time the casualties of Oct. 1st occurred the whole regiment was deployed as pickets, and had hardly time to form before the rebel column came down on them.

Col. Otis was in command of our brigade, 2d division 5th corps, when wounded, and his misfortune was the occasion of a general feeling of regret throughout this division and wherever his many and excellent qualifications as an officer and gentleman were known. He is now doing well.

Very respectfully submitted

JAMES R. CAMPBELL,
1st Lieut. and Adj. 140th N. Y. S. V.

Our Wounded in the Hands of the Rebels.

The Washington Chronicle of Tuesday has a list of the wounded federal soldiers at Locust Grove Hospital, in the Wilderness, in charge of Dr. Donnelly, of the 2d Pa. Reserves, together with a report of the deaths that had occurred. These men are prisoners to the rebels. We copy the names of those belonging to regiments from this locality:

CASUALTIES IN THE 140TH REGIMENT.—CAPT.
 MONTGOMERY'S DEATH.—Alvah Strong, Esq.,
 has received from his son-in-law, Sidney Munn, the following. Some of the names have been published before:

CUMMINS HOUSE, Va. Feb. 8th, 1865.

I submit the following report of wounded from the 140th N. Y., for the information of friends:

" K. Henry Mozler, slight wound.
Killed 2; wounded, 18.

W. S. GRANTSINN,
Lieut. Col Com'd Regiment.

Captain Montgomery, 5th N. Y., was shot through the head at 4 P. M., on the 6th inst. He was commanding the regiment and was gallantly leading them on in the struggle, when he met with his death wound. His men immediately carried him to the rear, where he only breathed for a few moments, not being conscious any of the time. Everything was done that could be done, but the time had come and he died the death of a brave and noble officer. His body is awaiting his friends, and will be sent to Rochester.

The 5th corps now occupies a new position about six miles from the old one, on what is called the Vaughn Road.

Rochester In haste, W. S. Grantsinn SIDNEY.

FROM THE 140TH REGIMENT.—The interesting army correspondent of the Soldiers' Aid makes the following reference to the 140th Regiment, in the last number of that paper:

I commenced, and yet have said nothing concerning the Regiment, which, perhaps of all others the good people of Rochester are most interested in, because it is more specifically a Rochester regiment. I refer to the 140th. Their life and position this winter are very different from what they were last winter. Then it was one of quiet and rest, with comparatively poor quarters to live in; the monotony of camp life broken only a few times during winter, by picket duty. This winter the regiment has a very pleasant location, a pretty camp and good houses, that is, good tight log huts, whose windows are the canvass roofs which cover them. There is a continual routine of duty to perform, consisting of guarding the railroad in this vicinity, and doing picket duty to keep out Mr. Moseby or any other man of his stripe. This place is quite a village, the places of business either built with rough boards, or are tents, and various branches of business being carried on here. Here are Bakers, Barbers, Stationers, Sutlers' Eating Houses, &c., but above all, (and I will promise to close my article with this,) is the Christian Commission Agency. They have erected a large tent here for a Church, and hold meetings regularly every day; twice on the Sabbath, and every night during the week. There are three agents here, good working men in the cause they represent, two of them are preachers of the Gospel, and one distributes reading matter among the soldiers: religious papers, hymn books, testaments, and such reading matter is much sought after by the men.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES OF Lieut. Col. Chas. B. Randall, 140th N. Y., were observed in Syracuse on Tuesday last, with fitting military honors, after which the remains were escorted to the Central depot for transportation to Somerset, Mass., where the burial was to take place yesterday, with Masonic rites. Col. Randall was a son of Rev. Charles Randall, recently of this city.

FUNERAL OF JOHN W. BROWNELL.—The remains of the late John W. Brownell, of the 140th regiment, who died near Brandy Station, Va., arrived here last night. The funeral will be at the Cornhill M. E. Church at 2 P. M., tomorrow, Wednesday.

Additional List of Casualties— Dispatch from Mayor Bradstreet.

The following dispatch was received from Mayor Bradstreet to-day:

WASHINGTON, May, 16.

To D. D. T. MOORE, Acting Mayor:—

Sir: I have received further casualties in the One Hundred and Fortieth Regiment:

Charles A Stokes, missing; A J Johnson wounded and missing; John McGraw, wounded and here; E H Shedd, do; Charles Yost, wounded and missing; J G Sidey, do; Capt. Hoyt, believed to be dead; George Means, wounded and here; Phillip Deitrick and Andrew Moon of the 151st; Corporal John Cameron arrived on this morning's boat, wounded, also young Parker and Corporal Rience. F L Durand goes to Fredericksburg for Col. Powers to-day.

Gen. Wadsworth's body is found and will be here soon.

The wounded just arrived are J Moore, Henry Blazen, of the 140th; George H Green, 108th; Gorham Scott, 140th; also Thomas O. Hara, Jr., and Hawkins, of the 14th Artillery.

N. C. BRADSTREET.

DEATH OF CAPT. P. A. McMULLEN.—The illness of Captain P. A. McMullen, 140th N. Y. V., which we announced yesterday, resulted in his death. He was regarded as a good soldier, and had served his country bravely and well.

THE 140TH REGIMENT.—This Regiment is attached to the 5th corps, and was undoubtedly in the expedition sent out on Friday to destroy the Weldon Railroad. They belonged to the 2d Division, commanded by Gen. Ayers, and held the advance, when surprised by the sudden rebel charge in the afternoon. We fear that many of them are taken prisoners. The Tribune of yesterday publishes a partial list of casualties, but mentions none from the 140th. Those which it publishes are mostly from New Hampshire and Connecticut Regiments.

FROM THE 140TH REGIMENT.—A letter from Corporal Samuel Ballentine, dated near Beverly Ford, Va., Aug. 18th, announces the unwelcome news of the death of Henry Luce, of Pittsford, and formerly a clerk in the hardware store of John H. Hill, in this city. He died from the effects of a wound received in the battle of Gettysburg.

Sutler Bryan had his supplies captured by a guerrilla band on Friday night.

CASUALTIES IN THE 140TH.—A correspondent of the Democrat, besides some names published last Saturday, gives the following list of casualties in the 140th. He writes under date of June 20th from near Petersburg:

Killed—Clinton D. Pierce, Co. I.

Death of Capt. Allen McMullen.—A telegram was received this morning by James McMullen, announcing the death of Capt. Allen McMullen, his brother, of the 140th N. Y. V.—He died at Hospital, Georgetown, D. C., yesterday morning, after a serious illness of a number of days. His wife was telegraphed to visit him Monday. She arrived too late to see him alive. Capt. McMullen served during the campaign of the 13th N. Y., whether as a private or Lieut. we are at present unaware. He was a faithful soldier, and was respected by his men.

AGAIN PROMOTED.—We had the pleasure yesterday of meeting Capt. Porter Farley of the 140th N. Y. V., who has returned for a ten days' sojourn among friends, it being his first leave of absence since the departure of his regiment for the seat of war eighteen months ago. The exciting cause of his present relief from duty will be found under the matrimonial head. The festivities incident to the occasion took place at the residence of the bride's father, Thomas C. Bates, Esq., and were shared by an extended circle of relatives and friends. It is Captain F.'s third and final promotion since entering the "volunteer" service, and one upon which we may bespeak for him the hearty congratulations of friends, both in camp and at home.

FROM THE 140TH REGIMENT.—James McQuire, of the 140th, arrived in Rochester yesterday, wearing the new Zouave uniform of that regiment. It is a very tasty and comfortable pattern, and greatly preferred to the old suit of blue. Lieut. Munn writes us, that the 140th is in prime condition, and as usual ready to respond to any military emergency. Colonel Ryan, (the successor of Col. O'Rorke,) is referred to as one of the most gallant and efficient officers in the Army of the Potomac, and it is believed the regiment will lose nothing of its prestige while under his command. He is determined to make it one of the best as one of the most "noticeable" among the New York volunteers.

PERSONAL.—Major I. F. Force, late of the 140th Regiment, returned home about two weeks since, having been discharged from the service in consequence of protracted illness. His return to a more congenial climate, it is hoped, will result in his early and complete recovery.

The Army and Navy Journal says that Assist. Paymaster Henry A. Strong, U. S. N., has been ordered to the steamer Sebago.

FUNERAL OF LIEUT. KLEIN.—The funeral of Lieut. Klein took place this forenoon, Captain Wescott's company acting as escort. The procession was a large one and the ceremonies of a very imposing character. 140th

Smith.—The razor strop man deserves a benefit. He gratuitously offered his services in making war speeches and aided materially in filling his quota of this district. His good humored, pithy anecdotes, dry jokes, and eloquent speeches rendered him as successful in the latter profession as in the original one of selling razor strops. Smith can tell of their perfections in a manner unequalled by any other man or any other Smith. No good citizen should pass his basket without taking one of the "few more left of the same sort."

DEATH OF CAPT. MEYERS.—We regret to hear as we do by telegraph to-day of the death of Capt. Meyers of the 140th Vols. A dispatch to J. J. Bausch from H. Lamb states that he will arrive with the body of Capt. Meyers on Friday morning. He was a worthy man and a brave soldier.

Death of a Member of the 140th.—Corporal James M. Tait, of the 140th Regiment, (Capt. Otis' Company) died yesterday of chronic diarrhara, contracted in the service of his country. He came home several months since and has been gradually wasting away, in spite of the medical efforts to throw off this almost fatal disease. Corporal Tait enlisted in the 140th, saving a successful business for the sake of the cause. His old comrades will be pained to hear of his decease.

DIED.—In the Hospital at Folly Mills, Va., on the 18th of November, JOHN W. BROWNELL, private Co. E, 140th Regt. N. Y. Vols.

Another noble patriot has offered his life on his country's altar. In August last he was drafted from your city, and on the 21st of September joined our regiment. Naturally of a generous nature, he soon gathered around him many friends, who deeply feel the sacrifice he was called to make. He met death with a Christian hope, and has gone to meet his reward. We buried him a short distance from our camp beneath a large cedar tree, whose overspreading branches cover his grave, and the autumn wind singing through its branches, chanted a mournful requiem. We deeply sympathize with the family whose circle has been so suddenly broken. Sleep in peace dear friend, till the morning of the resurrection, we then shall meet thee and join with thee in singing the song of welcome Lord.

Peacefully he sleeps in the grave where we laid him, Where the toils of war shall ne'er reach him more; 'Tis not there does the eye of our faith now behold him, But a soldier at rest on the heavenly shore.

A MEMBER OF CO. E, 140th REGT.

DEATH OF LT. HARRY POOL.—Intelligence was received this morning by letter from Lieut. Hamilton, that Lieut. Harry Pool, Quartermaster of the 140th Reg't, died at Gordonsville, Va., on the 17th of July. The letter containing particulars was written on the 23d. Lt. Pool was wounded and made prisoner in one of those terrible battles in the Wilderness, just after Grant commenced his Southward march in May. It appears that he recovered from the wound and was attacked by typhoid fever, of which he died after an illness of a week.

Lieut. Pool was a brave and gallant young man and his friends will hear with deep regret that he is dead. It is painful to see our young men, the flower of our army, thus dying in the prisons of the South, and deprived of the attention and consolation of relatives and friends chiefly because the Federal administration refuse to exchange prisoners upon the terms once agreed upon with the rebel government. The horrors of war and dread of the service are greatly increased by the useless hardships to which prisoners are subjected. If merciful women should offer to mitigate the hardship of the sick and dying prisoners in the South they would probably be denounced and insulted by the ultra secession press just as they are here by such papers as the Rochester Democrat and Elmira Advertiser.

REMAINS OF MAJOR SULLIVAN.—We are requested to state that the remains of the late Major Sullivan will probably arrive in this city via the Valley Road at 11 o'clock this A. M.—The body will be first taken to the residence of the father of deceased on Hunter street, under escort of the Union Blues, and removed to City Hall on Wednesday, where it will lie in state during the day. Notice of the funeral will be given hereafter.

OBSEQUIES OF MAJ. SULLIVAN—UNION BLUES.—The members of the Union Blues will assemble at their armory this (Tuesday) morning at 10 o'clock precisely, in uniform, with Newman's Band, for the purpose of receiving and escorting the remains of the late Major Jerry Sullivan from the Valley depot to the residence of his family on Hunter street.

On Wednesday morning, the company and band will assemble at their armory at 7:30 precisely and escort the remains to City Hall, where they will be guarded by a detachment of this company until 10 o'clock, at which hour the funeral will take place.

CHARLES B. HILL,
Captain Commanding.

By order, C. A. BRACKETT, Orderly.
March 15, 1864.

Arrival of Major Sullivan's Remains— His Funeral.

The remains of this brave and lamented soldier, arrived here from Baltimore yesterday morning accompanied by his brother, Capt. P. H. Sullivan, of the 140th regiment, and Lieut. Brady, of the 1st Veteran Cavalry. They were met at the depot by the parents and relatives of the deceased, and escorted to the residence of the family on Hunter street by the Union Blues and Alert Hose Company.

The funeral will take place from St. Patrick's Church on Friday morning, at 10 o'clock. At 8 o'clock on Friday morning the remains will be escorted by the Union Blues to the City Hall where they will lie in state until 10 o'clock when they will be moved to the church.

A battalion of the 54th Regiment will also form an escort to the funeral, consisting of the following companies: B, Capt. Sellinger; D, Capt. Schoen; F, Capt. Wescott, and B. Capt. Kennedy. An invitation has been extended to all officers and privates of the late 13th Regiment to participate in the funeral obsequies, and to assemble for that purpose on Friday morning at 9 o'clock at the armory.

The procession will move from the City Hall to the church at 10 o'clock, where the funeral ceremonies will take place.

Resolutions of the Alert Hose Co. on the Death of Major Sullivan.

ALERT HOSE COMPANY No. 1,
ROCHESTER, March 11, 1864.

At a meeting of this company held this evening, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

The painful intelligence having reached us that our friend and comrade, Major Jerry A. Sullivan, of the 1st Regiment N. Y. Veteran Cavalry, was killed on the 10th inst., at Snickers' Ford, Va., in a skirmish with the rebel forces, and

Whereas, This is the first occasion in the history of this company that we have been called to mourn the loss of a member by death, it is eminently proper that an expression of the feelings of its members should be made. Therefore

Resolved, That it is with feelings of the most unalloyed grief that the members of this company have received the sad news that our brother, Major Sullivan, has fallen in defence of the flag of his country; endeared as he has been to every member of the company as to all who knew him, by his gallantry as a soldier, his zeal as a fireman, his eminently genial social qualities, and his warm-hearted and generous sensibilities as a friend and companion.

Resolved, That in the death of Major Sullivan this company has lost a valued member, ever prompt and entirely fearless in the discharge of his duty; its members have lost a tried comrade and friend, and the Fire Department has cause to mourn the loss of one of its brightest and most cherished representatives in the army of the Union; one who has now fallen on the field of honor under circumstances that lend additional lustre to his name and deeds.

Resolved, That the members of this company tender to the aged bereaved parents and to the surviving relatives of Major Sullivan, the expression of their warmest sympathies with them in the loss which they have sustained in this afflictive dispensation of that Divine Providence which doeth all things wisely, trusting that the same wise power which has ordered this melancholy bereavement, may comfort it to their hearts and ours. We mourn with them his loss. He was a kind and affectionate son, a noble and generous brother; and deeply as we deplore his loss, we sympathize with his parents and brothers now in the army, in the feeling that as he was to die for his country and flag, he has fallen as a soldier should fall, gallantly fighting with his face to the enemy.

"He has lived as mothers wish their sons to live."
"He has died as fathers wish their sons to die."

Resolved, That the members of this company will attend the funeral obsequies of our brother when they shall be held; that the session room and the apparatus of the company be draped in mourning, and that the members of the company wear crape upon their badges for the period of thirty days.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing proceedings be suitably engrossed and presented to the parents and also to the brothers of Major Sullivan.

A Dedication to Mrs. P. H. O'Rourke.

In Memory of her Husband, who fell at the Battle of Gettysburg.

BY NELLIE M. MALONE.

Yet one more is taken from us,
In the bloom and pride of life;
Called forth by an all-wise Ruler,
While engaged in war's fierce strife.

In the blooming pride of manhood,
E'er life's sorrows threw their pall
O'er him, he obeyed the summons,
Went forth at his country's call.

For his country he had severed
All the ties to him so dear;
Family, home, friends and kindred,
He had sacrificed while here.

Ever foremost in the contest,
Leading his bold comrades on
With so many brave entreaties,
Till the victory was won.

Thus he fell, that patriot soldier,
Cheering on his little band,
While the flag, which he so cherished,
Falls beneath his trembling hand.

He died the brave, true soldier's death;
Not unprepared was he;
Weep not for him who now looks down
With smiling eyes on ye.

Then, Clara dear, mourn not for him,
Though sore thy trials be,
And on thy pure and guileless heart
The weight fall heavily.

And though the period of thy bliss,
With him whom thou didst choose
To be the sharer of thy joys,
The solace of thy woes—

Was brief, and filled with anxious cares
For the loved one far away;
Yet knowest thou not that ye will meet
In mansions not of clay?

When He "who doeth all things well,"
Sees fit to take thee home
To never-ending joys and bliss,
And to thy precious boon,—

Then wilt thou, in that land of rest
Receive thy well-earned crown,
Where sickness never can find place,
Where man can never frown.

That thou mayst meet just recompense
For all thy grief and care;

When from this earth thy soul spreads wing,
Is my most earnest prayer.

And ever, when I bend the knee
To Him, who reigns on high,
Shall thy name and thy husband's be
Joined with the suppliant's sigh.

Rochester, July 16th, 1863.

THE REMAINS OF COL. O'RORKE. — From correspondence from Gettysburg it will be seen that the remains of Col. O'Rorke of the 140 Regiment were, July 7th, temporarily interred in the hospital grounds, five miles north-west of Gettysburg. It is probable that the body of the gallant Colonel has, ere this, been recovered, and is on the way here for interment. It may arrive to-day.

Since writing the above we learn that Mr O'Rorke arrived home this morning. The body of her husband, it was expected, would be here at 10:30 this forenoon, but it did not arrive. It will probably arrive on the evening train from the East.

Funeral of the Late Col. O'Rorke.

The last rites of religion were performed over the remains of Col. P. H. O'Rorke amidst a vast concourse of people. The solemn service took place in St. Bridget's Church yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and was conducted with all the solemnity which marks the services of the Catholic Church on such occasions. The sacred edifice was hung in drapery most tastefully arranged, the national flag being everywhere conspicuous. The high altar was decorated with crape, white tassels and other ornaments appropriate to the occasion, and produced an exquisite appearance to the eye of the spectator. These arrangements were all made by the younger members of St. Bridget's Church, under the supervision of the Rev. Pastor, and all of whom were the intimate friends of the deceased and his companions in his school boy days. We do not remember having seen a church where more skill and good taste were displayed.

Long before the hour appointed for the service the streets, in every direction, leading to the church were crowded with people, whilst in its immediate neighborhood were to be seen hundreds of persons all anxious to secure admission. At the appropriate time the solemn cavalcade proceeded from the house of E. Bishop, Esq., to the church, and the coffin was laid on the very spot where, just one year ago, the gallant young hero stood with his excellent bride, their young hearts throbbing with life and hope as the nuptial blessing was imparted to them. The scene yesterday was sadly changed; the husband a lifeless corpse under the glorious flag which waved over him, and which he had sacrificed his precious life to defend, and the loving wife by its side, clothed in the widow's weeds, her cheeks bedewed with her tears, and her heart rent in grief! May a merciful God deign to look upon these two holocausts, and forgive the sins of the nation that has exacted them, we say!

When the body was placed upon the bier as we have indicated, the solemn service began. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. W. F. Payne, the pastor of the church, assisted by three priests from St. Joseph's church. The eulogy of the deceased was intrusted to the Rev. M. O'Brien, and never had that gentleman a more easy task to perform. All who knew the deceased will agree with the writer of this notice that human language is inadequate to the praise he deserves, whether we regard him as a son, a husband, a man, a hero, or a Christian.

After the service in the church terminated, the remains of P. H. O'Rorke were conveyed to their last resting place, near the summit of the Pinnacle. After the usual service at the grave had been sung, the Rev. F. Jacobs of St. Joseph's church delivered an eloquent oration, the aim of which was evidently intended and eminently well calculated to soothe the grief of his amiable widow, relations and friends. The usual salute was fired over the grave; and thus terminated one of the most touching and solemn rites we ever remember to have witnessed.

In concluding this imperfect notice we must not forget the services rendered by the choir. The offertory piece, "Rest, spirit, rest," has an inspiration in it almost divine. It was exquisitely sung, and its appropriateness to the occasion could not but force a tear from the eye. Brigadier General Williams, too, deserves more than a passing notice. He assumed the responsibility of all the arrangements of the funeral outside the church, and well did he perform them. The writer of this notice has often had proof that in the noble form of the General throbs a heart capable of generous impulses. The deceased Colonel, were he yet living, would add his meed of praise to mine. All honor to him for his many generous acts to Col. P. H. O'Rorke whilst living and after death.

A SPECTATOR.
